

On The Other Islands

Franchise Legislation Delayed—Action by the legislature upon the proposed new franchise for the Honolulu Rapid Transit & Land Company went over to the regular session of the legislature.

Gas Company Asks Boost—Honolulu Gas Company is asking permission of the utilities board to raise rates. Necessity for increasing wages of employees to meet living expenses and the fact that materials it uses has doubled in price are chief reasons offered in the request.

Test Case Argued—In the supreme court at Honolulu final arguments in the test case to determine whether territorial legislators can hold office as supervisors during their term of legislative office have been heard and decisions reserved. The Pacheco-Kumale cases are used for the test.

Army For Oahu—Last announced plans of the War Department will give the islands a force of 20,000 made up of five infantry regiments, three regiments of field artillery coast artillery units of a strength of 110 officers and 3320 men, a regiment of cavalry, a regiment of engineers, 72 officers and 218 men in the heavier than air service, 13 officers and 218 men in the lighter than air service, quartermaster corps, medical corps and headquarters detachment.

Hawaiians May Organize—Hawaiians in Hilo are planning to form an organization similar to the Civic Club of Honolulu but have been unable to agree as to whether it shall be a separate organization or a branch of the Honolulu body.

Tribune Editor Quits—Arthur B. Waterman, business manager of the Hilo Tribune, the Big Island's pioneer newspaper, has resigned his position, the resignation coming suddenly and unexpectedly. Waterman will be succeeded as manager by Harry C. Siler, former editor of this paper, who returned to San Francisco two months ago on account of the illness of his sister. Siler is expected to return here shortly from the Coast. Waterman succeeded Siler as editor when the latter left Hilo and was recently succeeded in the editorial chair by Sam Putnam, who arrived from the Coast several weeks ago.

Waikiki Reclamation—Bids for dredging work on the first unit of the Waikiki reclamation project are expected to be advertised for about December 1. The advertising merely awaits elapse of time limit for objections from property owners.

Hawaii Sends Star—Hawaiian women have sent a star for the suffrage flag being prepared by mainland women. Though a territory, Hawaii wants representation in the flag. The star is composed of red and yellow feathers taken from ahuhia by officers and members of the Daughters of Warriors and is affixed to a piece of grey tapa.

Territory Drops Suit—After pending for a number of years the action of the Territory against the Honolulu Rapid Transit Company to collect alleged excess income has been dropped by Attorney General Irwin.

Hopeful For Bonds—Delbert E. Metzger territorial treasurer has received a telegram from the National City Company, San Francisco asking when the second bond issue of $2,400,000 will be in a position to negotiate a sale.

Flu on Hawaii—Influenza in a mild form is reported to have made its appearance in Paauhau. It is said the plantation is handling about 30 cases a day the disease taking a "three day fever" form.

Estate Takes Bonds—The Bernice Bishop estate trustees have bought $10,000 worth of the second issue of Territorial bonds at $98.01 specifying that the proceeds will be applied to the Kona and Kau belt road on Hawaii.

Scout Head Named—Samuel W. Robley, who has been engaged in Y. M. C. A. for the past several years, has been named as Scout executive in Oahu to succeed W. H. Hutton who resigned that office to take charge of Maui Scout affairs the first of November.

Laupahoehoe Grinds Yet—Advises received by the Davies agency in Honolulu said the grind at Laupahoehoe, Hawaii, was still on and would not be completed until about Christmas time.

President Approves Bonds—Governor McCarthy has received notification that the President has approved the Nawiliwili Harbor bond issue of $200,000. The governor is reported as saying G. N. Wilcox has purchased the issue. Improvements are to cost $400,000 of which the Territory pays half and the federal government the balance.

"Johnny" Martin Dies—John M. Martin who for a score of years has been a prominent character in Honolulu life and an earnest worker in home missions and religious welfare work died in Queen's Hospital last Friday. He had been ailing for a year or more but not seriously ill until a few days before his death.

Island Physicians Meet—Doctors of medicine from all of the islands met in Honolulu Monday in annual convention. Dr. F. L. Putnam of Honolulu was elected president of the medical society.

Legislature Powerless—Attorney General Irwin rendered an opinion last week that the legislature had not power or authority to abolish taxes on lands of homesteaders who have not yet received their patents.

Scrap Book Made in Puunene School Takes Journey to Far Balkans

It is a long way from Maui to Albania, from the foot of Haleakala to the Balkan mountains and for a scrap book to last for and be in use after two or three years seems a long time, but a scrap book made in Puunene school is now being enjoyed by school children in Tirana.

When the call went out for the making of picture scrap books that might serve to entertain and while away painful and tiresome hours of wounded or sick soldiers in the hospitals during the world war, children of Puunene school were among those to respond and recently there came a letter from Albania telling of the whereabouts of one of them. Though not used for the purpose it was created, for weary ones in hospitals, it is nevertheless serving a useful cause as the following letter shows:

"Tirana, Albania, Balkan,
July 19, 1920
"Puunene School,
"Maui, Territory of Hawaii."

"A Scrap Book which your school made, possibly some two or three years ago has eventually found its way to this remote part of the world. It is being greatly appreciated by the little Albanian children who are in attendance of the American Red Cross schools."

"The children of this small country have very little and anything from the outside world interests them very much. Salutations from,

"A. G. BOSTON, Capt.,
"Director Supplies,
"Commission to Albania."

School Notes

Waihee school children have the newspaper instinct, the "nose for news" and send other items than school notes as appears from the letters received from that school this week which follow:

On Thursday, November 11, 1920 in the evening between seven and eight o'clock there was a terrible noise at the Waihee beach. It sounded like a cannon that shot. Some of the people thought it was a tidal wave and the others thought it was a flood.

On Sunday night, November 14, 1920, Mrs. Kintin Touris gave birth to baby boy.

Thursday, November 11, 1920 was a holiday and there were many people down at the Waihee beach. Some were swimming, and some were playing on the seashore. The others were waiting for the men with the fish to come home in their canoes; they had few fish.

Today the waves are very high like mountains.

Yours truly,
HELEN NAWAHINE.

Editor Maui News,
Dear Sir:

About four weeks ago the government men were sent out to Waihee school to level our back yard for a new building. The bon-fire was covered up and the stones were piled on the other end. The banana trees were pulled so the Primary children will have room enough to play. The new bon-fire was built on the other end a few yards from the stonewalls. The new building will be for Mrs. Buck and her children.

Sunday, November 14, Mrs. Kintin Touris gave birth a baby boy. They are both proud of their first son.

Yours truly,
HANNAH NUUHIWA,
Waihee School.

Editor Maui News,
Dear Sir:

On Thursday, November 11 about 8 o'clock in the night there were very high waves on the Waihee beach. The men who went to catch fish did not get any because the waves were so high.

On Tuesday, November 16, about 9 o'clock in the morning we had some visitors in our school. First they visited the first and second grades. Then Mr. Brown, one of the visitors came to Mrs. Austin's room. We recited some memory gems for him. He said that he was very glad to visit on school because he had not been here before.

Yours truly,
SUEÑO MANSHO.

Resolution For Bishop—Gratitude and appreciation for 18 years of service in Hawaii are expressed in resolutions adopted by the council of advice of the Episcopal church in Hawaii because of the resignation of the Right Reverend Henry Bond Restarick as bishop of Hawaii. These resolutions were adopted after a letter from the presiding bishop notified the council that he has received a communication from Bishop Restarick conveying his resignation and giving ill health as his reason.

THEATERS

William Farnum is playing in "The Jungle Trail." This is a story of love, hate and revenge, in which the star carries the role of Robert Morgan, who heads a hunting expedition into the heart of the African jungle. When the expedition has passed far beyond civilization's most remote outposts, Morgan is savagely attacked by his guides. He manages to escape them, however, and also eludes the hunters, who have been excited to murderous frenzy by the guides.

His adventures then are many and of a most unusual sort. He finds a hidden city of savages in the heart of the wilderness and is ordered put to death as an infidel. His superhuman strength saves him and he is then taken as a god. His escape and his return to America, where he discovers that he has been reported dead, are events which rapidly follow. And then the revenge on the man who caused his troubles come.

Elsie Ferguson plays three roles in her new picture, "Lady Rose's Daughter." Three different periods are occupied by the picture—1860, 1890 and modern times—and Miss Ferguson's performance is much more than a nice differentiation in costuming. She portrays a grandmother, daughter and finally granddaughter and to each role she imparts a rare sympathy and understanding.

In the main story, Miss Ferguson is Julie Le Breton, companion to her distant relative, Lady Henry Delafield. She fancies herself in love with Captain Warkworth, an army officer. Because Julie will not abandon Warkworth, Lady Delafield banishes her from her home. She goes to Warkworth's apartment and while there learns of an affair which he is carrying on with another woman. She attempts to destroy herself and is taken to a hospital, where she encounters Jacob Delafield, her guardian's nephew who has long wanted to marry her, and they are made happy.

Mae Murray in "The Right to Love," in which she plays the part of Lady Archibald, who through a marriage arranged by her parents, has been wedded to a man who loves neither her nor her child. They are living in Constantinople, and Lady Archibald continues to remain under her husband's roof only because she has learned to fear his vile temper.

Madge Kennedy, "Through the Wrong Door," a light, gay and amusing comedy picture, with Madge Kennedy in the leading role.

Isabel Carter goes "through the wrong door" one stormy night, when the rain is falling in torrents, the accident occurring because of a mistaken address. She has dismissed her taxicab and is so blinded by the storm that she hands her wraps to the gentleman who admits her, mistaking him for a servant, and goes directly to the drawingroom fire to dry her wet satin shoes.

She then discovers that she is in the house of Burt Radcliffe, a young mining engineer she met in the west. They know each other only by their first names, but he discovers when she goes to use the telephone that she is the daughter of wealthy Haskell Carter, who has swindled him out of valuable mining property.

This deliberate fraud, though protected by the law, has ruined the young man and broken off his engagement to a young lady who was intent on marrying him for his money.

Harry T. Morey. When thieves fall out is in effect one of the high lights of Vitagraph's big picture, "In Honor's Web," with Harry T. Morey as star. Mr. Morey appears in the role of Frank Powell, a wealthy manufacturer. He falls in love with the same woman his younger brother, Bert, loves and is outdistanced by the younger man. The entanglement of lives that follow brings Powell to arrest, charged with murder he has not committed. The falling out of thieves provides a smashing climax that clears up the mystery.

Wood Case Delayed—In compliance with the expressed wish of the territorial senate as embodied in a resolution the commissioners of public instruction have decided to postpone for an indefinite period action of the matter of appointing a successor for Edgar Wood, principal of the territorial normal and training school whose tenure of office expires September 1, 1921.
